COMPLAINT

Complainant files this complaint under 2 U.S.C. § 437g(a)(1) (2010) against Ed Martin; his campaign committee, Ed Martin for Congress (the "Committee"); and SaveAB.com for America ("SaveAB.com"), (collectively "Respondents") for violations of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1971, as amended ("FECA"). Ed Martin appears to have transferred corporate assets, including an extensive mailing list and a website, from SaveAB.com to the Committee in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441b. Martin and the Committee also have failed to include the proper disclaimer on the website and emails sent to the mailing list in violation of 2 U.S.C. § 441d.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Ed Martin is a candidate for the United States House of Representatives from Missouri's Third Congressional District. Martin filed his Statement of Candidacy with the Federal Election Commission ("FEC") on July 21, 2009. The Committee filed its Statement of Organization on July 29, 2009. The address listed for Martin and the Committee on their Statements is 6037 Hampton Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, 63109.

Prior to running for Congress, Martin ran SaveAB.com, a non-profit corporation organized to oppose the sale of Anheuser-Busch to a foreign company. Martin incorporated SaveAB.com as a nonprofit corporation in Missouri on July 3, 2008.¹ The address listed for SaveAB.com was the same one now used by the Committee. Over the past year, SaveAB.com operated a website, www.saveab.com, through which it asked visitors to register for a mailing list if they opposed the sale of Anheuser-Busch.²

² See David A. Lieb, "SaveAB Web site points people to Martin campaign," News Tribune, Dec. 12, 2009, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B.

Reportedly, nearly 85,000 individuals provided their names. The website is registered to Scott Leidecker, the Republican Director of the Board of Election Commissioners for the City of St. Louis.³

SaveAB.com was dissolved on March 13, 2009.⁴ According to SaveAB.com's Articles of Incorporation, "the assets of the corporation will be distributed on dissolution ... to charity."⁵ However, it appears that its assets were transferred to Martin and the Committee instead. Martin has used both the SaveAb.com domain name and the SaveAB.com mailing list to support his federal candidacy.

While Martin states that he shut down the SaveAB.com website prior to starting his campaign, he recently re-launched it.⁶ Currently, the only page on the website promotes Martin's federal candidacy and provides a link to the Committee's official website, as follows:⁷

Ed Martin has decided to take this fighting spirit to Congress. He is running for Congress in the Third Congressional District right here in Missouri – this district includes the old headquarters of A-B down on Pestalozzi Street. (Third Congressional District consists of St. Louis City, St. Louis County, Jefferson County and St. Genevieve)

Ed Martin is running, as he says, to "fight for jobs, for the future and for the American dream – which is all in jeopardy if we don't stop shipping our jobs to Mexico and India and running up our debt to China!"

Furthermore, in December 2009, Martin sent an email from a www.savab.com domain name to over 40,000 people who had signed up at SaveAB.com; the message contained identical content to the posting currently on the webpage.⁸ Furthermore, if an individual clicked on the campaign link appearing on SaveAB.com and the email, they were greeted by a special SaveAB.com welcome message on the Committee's website.⁹ Although Martin is apparently operating the SaveAB.com website and sending emails from SaveAB.com addresses on behalf of his Committee, neither the website nor the emails displayed a proper disclaimer.

The Committee's reports filed with the Commission include no entries related to the SaveAB.com domain name or the SaveAB.com mailing list.¹⁰ There is no indication that the Committee made any expenditures to pay SaveAB.com for its assets. Furthermore, there is no record of an in-kind contribution from Scott LeLendecker, the registered owner of the domain name, or anyone else purporting to give the Committee access to the website or the list as an in-kind contribution. While SaveAB.com was required to give its assets to charity, it is unclear if it actually did so. It appears that the corporate assets were simply transferred to Martin and his Committee without either having to pay for them.

LEGAL ARGUMENT

1. Receipt of Corporate Contributions

⁸ A copy of the email is attached hereto as Exhibit F.

⁹ See <http://edmartinforcongress.com/saveab/>, last visited January 21, 2010, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit G.

¹⁰ At the time of this filing, only the Committee's October 2009 report is available on the FEC's website.

Pursuant to FECA, "[i]t is unlawful for ... any corporation ... to make a contribution or expenditure in connection with any election at which ... a Representative in ... Congress [is] to be voted for" and for "any candidate, political committee, or other person knowingly to accept or receive any contribution" from a corporation. 2 U.S.C. § 441b; see also 11 C.F.R. § 114.2(b). Furthermore, "the provision of any goods or services without charge or at a charge that is less than the usual and normal charge for such goods or services is a contribution." 11 C.F.R. § 100.52(d)(1).

Here, SaveAB.com appears to have made, and Martin and his Committee knowingly accepted, a contribution of SaveAB.com's corporate assets. Although its Articles of Incorporation required it to give all of its assets to charity upon dissolution, SaveAB.com appears to have simply transferred everything it had to Martin's campaign. Martin and his Committee are using SaveAB.com's domain name and its valuable mailing list, reportedly consisting of nearly 85,000 names, in support of Martin's campaign without making any payment for them. The fact that SaveAB.com was recently dissolved is inapposite; a candidate cannot raid a corporation that he controls for his federal campaign, and then circumvent 2 U.S.C. § 441b by then simply dissolving it. Furthermore, the fact that SaveAB.com was terminated under Missouri law also does not change the fact that Martin and the Committee are benefiting by impermissibly using SaveAB.com's corporate name and corporate logo on its campaign materials. See FEC Adv. Op. 2007-10 (August 21, 2007).

2. Failure to Include Proper Disclaimer on Electronic Mail and Website

Pursuant to 2 U.S.C. § 441d and 11 C.F.R. § 110.11(a), all "electronic mail of more than 500 substantially similar communications when sent by a political committee; and all Internet websites of political committees available to the general public ... must include disclaimers."

Here, Martin re-launched SaveAB.com and sent out an email to over 40,000 people on behalf of the Committee. While the website and email contained the campaign's logo, it did not include the disclaimer specified in 11 C.F.R. § 110.11(b). The words "Paid for by Ed Martin for Congress" do not appear anywhere on either of the communications.

REQUESTED ACTION

Respondents have violated FECA by making and accepting illegal in-kind corporate contributions and failing to include the required disclaimers on their emails and website. We request that the FEC investigate these violations, enjoin Respondents from further violations, and assign the maximum fines permitted by law.

Sincerely,

SaveAB Web site points people to Martin campaign

By DAVID A. LIEB
Associated Press Writer

An Internet site created to oppose the sale of Anheuser-Busch to a Belgian brewer now is pointing people to a Missouri congressional candidate.

Republican Ed Martin founded the nonprofit group "SaveAB.com for America" last year and launched a Web site that signed up nearly 85,000 people against the sale of the St. Louis brewery to InBev. The effort failed to stop the brewery deal.

Martin, who served as chief of staff to former Republican Gov. Matt Blunt, announced this fall that he is challenging Democratic U.S. Rep. Russ Carnahan, of St. Louis, in the 2010 election.

Before launching his campaign, Martin said, the SaveAB Web site was taken down.

But the Web site recently went live again with a message bemoaning layoffs and cuts by Anheuser-Busch InBev SA, thanking various supporters and noting Martin is running for Congress. The revived SaveAB.com provides a link to Martin's campaign Web site for those "interested in finding out more or joining Ed Martin."

Earlier this week, a SaveAB e-mail account was used to send an identical message to about 40,000 people who had provided their e-mail addresses to the group.

Martin said Friday that since becoming a candidate he had received several inquiries about the SaveAB effort and wanted to update people both about the defunct organization and his current endeavors.

"My intention was not to use the list for the campaign or to promote me over Russ Carnahan or anything, it was to close the loop on the questions," Martin said.

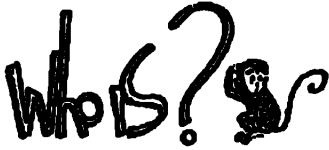

Federal Election Commission regulations prohibit corporations from making expenditures "for communications that expressly advocate the election or defeat" of particular candidates.

The revived SaveAB Web site and e-mail "appears to be express advocacy" for Martin, said Paul Ryan, an associate legal counsel and the FEC program director for The Campaign Legal Center in Washington, D.C. The nonpartisan center analyzes campaign finance and election law issues.

Martin voluntarily dissolved SaveAB as a nonprofit corporation in March. Consequently, those particular Federal Election Commission regulations no longer apply to it, Ryan said.

SAVE A JOB. KEEP A JOB. FIGHT.
IT'S NOT JUST A ST. LOUIS BRAND.
IT'S AN AMERICAN BRAND.

THE OFFICIAL WEBSITE FOR SAVE AB.COM

Dear Fellow SaveAB.com supporter,

"We told you so."

We have a right to want to say this!

We are the nearly 85,000 men and women strong from across the country who signed up to try to stop the sale of Anheuser-Busch to a foreign company BECAUSE we knew that would happen:

- Massive layoffs
- Cuts in benefits for workers
- Movement of jobs from our hometowns to foreign capitals (and in New York City)
- Losses by the many civic groups and associations that A-B supported.

All of this came true. It is sad and it makes many of us angry.

Still, the future in America is bright but we need to continue to find the right causes to fight for. We had great partners/businesses help us on our fight - including Miken Technologies, Al Hrabosky's Balbark Saloon, The Goodson Co., and the Carpenters' and Laborers' of St. Louis. These and others deserve our support and our attention. Please help them.

Also, one of the original Saveab.com founders, Ed Martin, has decided to take his fighting spirit to Congress. He is running for Congress in the Third Congressional District right here in Missouri - his district includes the old headquarters of A-B down on Pestalozzi Street. Welcome SaveAB.com Friends

Thank you for visiting.

My campaign for Congress comes from the energy and vision that so many of you had to fight the sale of A-B to a foreign company. In Congress, we need leaders who will fight for American jobs and for our future. I will do that.

My opponent Russ Carnahan has voted for all of what is going wrong in America - from the bailout of Wall Street to the $1.2 trillion "stimulus" to the cap and tax bill and the Obama-care health "reform" bill. In fact, he has voted with Speaker Nancy Pelosi a whopping 99% of the time!

Please check out my website and, if you like what you see, please sign up for email updates and to volunteer to help.

Ed Martin is a financial consultant. One of our SaveAB.com members, John, has been a great help in getting Ed's website up and running. John is a great guy and a great volunteer. If you are interested in helping Ed, please contact John at john@saveab.com.
